

- Staff and Medical Staff Booster Dose Clinics

Island Health is increasing access to COVID-19 booster dose for staff and medical staff with site-based clinics over the next few weeks. This week – clinic locations are confirmed for VGH, RJH, NRGH, CDH, and CRGH, with other clinic locations being finalized. Community Primary Care physicians may also attend and self-identify as community physicians (Island Health ID not required).

- Treating COVID-19 patients with Sotrovimab

- Clinical Practice Guide for the Use of Sotrovimab in Patients with COVID-19
- Sotrovimab is a monoclonal antibody that neutralizes the spike protein of the SARS-COV-2 virus, preventing entry into human cells and replication. Sotrovimab is active against variants of concern including Omicron.
- Island Health establishes three outpatient clinics to treat vulnerable COVID-19 patients using Sotrovimab

Sotrovimab will be administered intravenously at three outpatient clinics located at the Royal Jubilee, Nanaimo Regional and Campbell River Hospitals.

- Working with Mild Illness & On-site Rapid Testing

The speed of transmission of the Omicron variant is taking a toll on staffing resources in health-care. As such, Dr. Bonnie Henry has stated her support of temporary measures to allow health-care staff and medical staff to continue working with mild illness if they test negative for COVID-19 and feel well enough to do so. To support this temporary change in process, Island Health is rolling-out Rapid Antigen Point of Care Tests (RAPOCT) at all acute care sites this week, for all staff and medical staff with mild illness (sniffles/slight runny nose, congestion, scratchy throat or headache) - who are actively working on-site, or are scheduled to work the same day. In the days ahead, we will be implementing RAPOCT procedures in LTC, Tertiary Mental Health, health units and health authority owned/operated primary care facilities.

Anyone who does not feel well enough to work should stay home and arrange a PCR test through the priority health-care worker call line: 1-833-737-9377 – 8am – 4pm, daily. As well, symptomatic medical staff who are not scheduled to work imminently, or who are working virtually, should book a PCR test.

PLEASE NOTE: Site and departmental leaders will be sharing site-specific process details for RAPOCT with staff and medical staff once in place at your site. Questions about the process can be directed through your leader.
